GILLETTS. Owing to the absorption which always takes place when the roots of the natural teeth are removed, it is necessary to make use of teeth that are much longer than the natural organs ever are so that when the common teeth are used, instead of being an ornament, they often disfigure the moath; nor will the use of the old fashioned gum teeth, obvinte the difficulty. But the improved method removes every objection, and though they are composed of the same materials, they are so constructed as to be much more serviceable and durable, and in case of uccident they can be repaired with less than half the expense incurred in the repairs of the old kind. There are very many advantages resulting from these improve ments, which cannot be set forth in a notice so brief. Those interested are therefore invited to call at his office and Dr. S. will be gind to explain the advantages of this over the old plan, a plan on which he practiced for years before he received the improvements. References will be given to persons in this vicinity now wearing teeth inserted by him, and to one individual in this yillage who has an entire act in both jaws.
